

Jeffrey "Jeff" Nicholas Lane

April 11, 1968 - March 15, 2020

Jeffrey Nicholas Lane, son of George Howard Lane and Barbara Clune Lane, was born August 11, 1968 in Williamsport, Pennsylvania and passed from this life on March 15, 2020. We are sure he is rocking with Ryan Lane and Rick Benson right now.

He was a graduate of Classical High School in Springfield, Massachusetts and received his Bachelors of Computer Science from the State University of New York. He married Patricia Lane on October 12, 2002 and although they didn't have any children, Jeff was a great stepfather to his stepson, Richard Bamberger.

Jeff began a real love of computers from an early age and always told the story of how he walked into the computer lab when he first started college and the professor working on wiring in the subfloor asked him for a screwdriver and that was all she wrote. During college, Jeff worked as a lifeguard for the Villa Roma Resort and as a bartender for the Finger Bullet Recovery Room Café, both of which he always spoke fondly of and which seemed to supply an endless supply of stories from Jeff.

After college, Jeff worked at various technology companies: LICA systems Wilson Hill & Associates, Ultra Technologies, Booze Allen Hamilton, Epoch Networking, Verio, and most importantly Digital Nation (according to Jeff describing Digital Nation as one of his best jobs ever). Jeff dedicated the majority of his career to his job at EPA starting in 1993 where he worked in IT Security. He was especially proud of his work at EPA because he felt that his work made a positive impact on the world.

Jeff had many passions in his life. He enjoyed woodworking and custom-made various pieces for his home. He was a proud member of the Harley Owners Group, having worked with the Fort Washington Harley dealership to restore a Harley Davidson motorcycle. He had a particular fascination with grilling. He loved movies, especially sneaking out to go see a matinee whenever possible. He loved camping and the outdoors, especially boogie boarding with his family. He enjoyed being meticulous in his organization and had specific procedures for various parts of his life, overthinking things over and over complicating things at times. Most importantly, Jeff was a diehard New England Patriots fan and a strong believer that Tom Brady was the GOAT.

Jeff was preceded in death by his mother, Barbara Lane; his cousin, Ryan Lane; and his cousin-in-law, Rick Benson.

He is survived by his father, George Lane; step-mom, Chris Lane; his loving wife, Trish; and step-son, Ricky Bamberger. He is also survived by his brother, Greg and wife Kelli and nieces, Sarah and Gabriella; his sister, Jennifer and husband, Chris and nieces Katherine and Bridgett; and many uncles, aunts, cousins, and an incredible list of friends. Every year he would get the opportunity to enjoy time with his family at Chincoteague during the Lane family reunion which was always the highlight of his year.

Jeff was a generous person, always helping out and giving extra effort for those in need. Jeff was always a person who animals and kids took a liking to. He had the most infectious smile, lighting any room with his presence. Jeff was looked up to by multitudes of people even if he didn't realize the impact that he made on peoples lives. He wasn't always the easiest to get along with or understand but he had one of the largest hearts and was one of the kindest and most gentle people you could ever meet. Jeff as an important person to various people and has made an important impact on their lives. Jeff was a father, an uncle, a cousin, a son, a brother, a friend, and a husband and will be remembered dearly by all who knew him.

Due to the COVID- 19 virus, funeral services will be private with a Memorial Mass at a later date.

“ The world has lost one of the kindest men I have ever met in my entire life. My cousin Jeff always made me feel important, loved and supported. He helped me out when I first moved to the DC area, letting me sleep on his couch while I looked for an apartment. He was my beloved brother's biggest fan and mentor. He sent gifts and called me when my youngest daughter was in and out of the hospital multiple times over the years. He was so good at bringing us together. I will miss his laugh, his jokes and support. I take comfort in knowing that he's with Ryan and Rick. Trish and Ricky, we love you guys and are here for you. With love, Sarah

“ Oh this is so very hard. It is not possible for me to write this without tears. I have so many fond memories of Jeff, most especially the ones from Chincoteague when Jeff and Ryan would boogie board in the surf until we had to drag them out. Then came Ryan's son, Jeffery and before you knew it Ryan, "little Jeff" and "big Jeff" were inseparable at the beach. But before Ryan's Jeffery arrived Jeff took Ryan under his wing as only a person as loving as Jeff would do. Ryan just finished his 4 year stint in the Coast Guard and life was uncertain. Jeff convinced Ryan to come to the DC area, move into his apartment and helped him get his start in the tech world; a career path that Ryan loved. I loved Jeff because he was family and deeply appreciated how he cared for my son in so many ways. Jeffery, your passing has left me aching like I haven't since Ryan's death. Yes, Jeff, Ryan and Rick are rocking together and I bet Uncle Al is rocking with them too. We love you Trish & Ricky. Uncle Neal & Aunt Beth

“ I haven't seen jeff since we graduated together at classical high school in springfield,ma. We did know each other that well, but during the football season we got to know each other pretty well, by running into eachother... you see jeff was a big boy, and coach McLaughlin would bring jeff over for a specific drill where I had to go full speed and try to move jeff from the whole! I would hit him so hard, and he never complained, and I think we grew a respect for one another. I just joined this group on FB, and sadly saw the post of his passing. I am truly sorry for your loss, and just wanted to give you my perspective, and that you are right that he was a gentle soul.
