“ I met Lee during the early stages of Sha'are Shalom.

When he told me of his vision of a building for the congregation, I thought he was a dreamer. Boy, was I wrong! Over the years, we would discuss what he and others were doing. He always had a smile and story for me. I was impressed by his dedication and hard work. He never quit until the building was finished. In my 67 years, I never met a man more giving and willing to work for what he wanted. He will be missed. Rest in peace Lee.
