“ Today is Father's Day and you're not here. I'm missing you so much. Being your first born and being so much like you, dad you were my first love, like all little girls loving their dad. I wish we had more time together to mend our relationship...damn we are so much alike. I will see you again one day, please look over me and my kids. Love you dad and Happy Father's Day.

“ Dad, it's been a year since you left us. I will never forget how you were always there for me when I needed you most. I will always remember our bike rides, fishing trips and after school snack runs. I love you and miss you more than words can describe. Love, your baby girl

“ Allen,
I remember working with you and Butch during my four year apprenticeship. It's hard to believe that was over 20 years ago. Thanks for all your support, encouragement, and honest truth, during the good and the bad times. Thanks for all the work you did in the local. It's hard to believe you're gone, but you're not forgotten. Until we meet again, rest in peace.

“ I remember hearing poppop playing music from upstairs on his guitar when we all lived with him and nanny. I'd want to go downstairs and see what he was up to, I wanted to be around him because I looked at him as a father for so long as a kid. I remember him playing melodies on his acoustic/ electric guitar he had. I remember thinking as a kid that he was the worlds greatest guitarist and coolest guy ever playing and enjoying an ice cold Budweiser. He was the man in my eyes and still is. I miss you pop pop and although you were always a rough neck I knew you loved each and everyone of us dearly. May you finally Rest In Peace knowing that you were equally dearly loved and we all embrace your spirit as we continue on this path of life. I love you old man and I can't wait to see you again when it's my time.

“ Allen, I will always remember your kind and generous heart and crazy laugh. Though you portrayed a tough exterior at times we all know you were a softy. You are a incredible brother and in 2015 I found out how caring and compassionate you are while caring for mom. I miss you so much and know you are loved by your baby sister. May our Angels comfort you and hold you in their arms. Rest In Peace brother.....Till we meet again. I love you.
