“ Brian was my first friend, thanks to our amazing parents being best friends, we knew each other since birth. From all the weekends spent at Jackie and Butch's house in Allentown (and that spooky attic space) and then later in Pomfret, to our parents dragging us to the softball fields, we grew up together. Brian was also my first bad influence (something I thank him very much for), I was a very shy and timid kid and he helped me overcome a lot of that. I wish I could write about a single great memory but pretty much all of my best childhood memories involve him. Even though we grew apart as we became adults, I have and always will think of him as my oldest friend, he is greatly missed.
