“ Lt please know you, and your family, are in my thoughts and prayers and I wish I was able to stand there in person through this time. Losing a mate who has been joined to us for so many years is a reality we all face as we grow older. We've all had our minds stray into the "What If" and most of us choose the option of being the one to depart first. But when we are the one left behind the pain, loss and what do I do now crashes down into our lives. All we can do is wake up each morning and go about our lives as normally as we can enjoying the rest of our family, circle of loved ones and friends and over time the visible grief and signs of your loss will recede from others view and perhaps even dull a bit deep down inside. But you will never forget her love and all you shared together and those memories will warm your soul.

God Bless
