“ Dear Grimes Family,

Ours hearts are broken as we know yours are. She was our "Kattie-did" for many years and we will be forever grateful for the opportunity to be the extended family to Scotty and Katie. We still consider them both our grandchildren in every sense of the word, and even in our absence, each of you are still considered family. Please know that we are here for you should you need anything at all. Wonderful memories are what we have now, they will have to do. Make sure to take time to come together and celebrate her life and the good times, share them with her beautiful daughter and keep her memory alive. Scotty will continue to be a joy in your lives, let him be a comfort to you as I know you will be for him.

\*Scotty, continue to excel in everything you do. Katie will be right there with you. Talk to her when you need to, cry for her when it hurts. But know that as she said " you are the best brother a girl could ever have" and she meant it from the bottom of her heart. We love you buddy, as always.*

*God Bless you all, may he bring peace and healing to each of you.

“Where do I even begin about Elle? Well First I will correct myself and call her Ellen, because the last conversation we had was a series of things but one of the talks included you saying you are starting to go by Ellen now and your trying to outgrow the name Elle, and I understood what you meant because like a million of other things we had in common I was telling you that I was introducing myself as Christine instead of Chrissy, and we both agreed that it was going to be hard because Elle and Chrissy was what people knew us as, your friends knew you has Elle and your family knew you as Kate and professional people knew you has Ellen. What else can I say, men wanted to have you and women wanted to be you, but 2 me and so many other people who knew you knew you were more than just a beautiful face, you had a beautiful heart and soul. I'm sure there are other people who have felt what I have, how can someone be so gorgeous and yet expect someone like me to be her friend? That's because she didn't view people on how they looked but how they were as a person. I've been smiling a lot today and the past few days because a funny memory would pop into my head, today I remembered when you and your boyfriend at the time had world of Warcraft and played together and if anyone knows how that game works its basically another world on the computer and you pick a character or avatar, and you choose how they look and a name for them. I was over one day watching you play and your boyfriends and your character was running around but there was another girls avatar (I remember her avatar was named Lily something) running around with you guys and she was getting on your nerves and it was funny to me because you acted like this girl was trying to get your man so your character went up to Lily and you slapped her! I busted out laughing and you started to smile I told you that he had no idea who this girl is in real life but you weren't having it! That's another thing I love about you, you would of never played that game if your boyfriend at the time didn't but since he liked it you got into it. that is awesome, but since he liked it, you gave it a try. I love you so much Ellen, I remember another conversation we had and it was about how we didn't like it when girls played up being dumb when they aren't, and I said I hated how Blonde jokes are meant as being dumb when most blondes aren't and you said a lot of blonde headed girls who do play up being dumb give blondes a bad name, then I did something stupid and I said 'see even brunettes can be stupid at times' and we laughed. & you hated being called Barbie. I smiled so hard today too at another memory of us at Randys house and I passed out and was upset when I came to because I embarrassed myself in front of so many people and Paige took me to you and said "look whos here Chrissy, its Elle" and I immediately was happy again and the rest of the night before it was interrupted, we made videos on your version 2 phone and I was yelling at the camera how we were the most trillest b's here and ain't no one coming to see us and you agreed with me and smiled and took a million pictures together. I would do almost anything to get my hands on some of the pictures we have together and some of the videos we made, I wish I had the pictures we last took together in wawas bathroom, you were posing in the bathrooms mirror and I came out the stall and jumped in, I loved the one of us posing back to back babe, we looked fabulous!! I wished I had the pictures of Bryce and Leilani and the pictures of you holding Carter lol I remember when you came to see him he was looking at you real serious, and you said "he don't like me, he must have his father in him" and I said eff him (not Carter, carters father) I love you and you loved me and my kids. I love how you cared for my sons, and I have to cut this short because I posted too much, like always. I love you Ellen, and our million memories<3ParisNicole4life!

“ I am Ms. Angela.. I had the pleasure of working side by side with Ellen.. When I first met Ellen I was drawn by her appearance.. And knew right away she would be a asset to the industry... Ellen learned all the techniques and was able to advance her skills...Ellen will be truly missed as she touched all our lives in some kind of way the little time we all knew her...when I got the news it was like hearing something about one of my own children... I live and will continue to miss you..there will be a plaque placed in your memory in my classroom... My condolences to the family...hang in there be strong. Hang on to the memories.. God Bless...
