“ Almost every day for the past 4 years, I have had some kind of interaction with Fred, I work in the office of his apartment building. I knew from the day I met him that he was a character. He could always make me laugh or had a quick come back for me if I gave him a hard time (which I did a lot). If he had technical issues with his computers or phone, he'd come downstairs and put it down saying he didn't know what he did but it was messed up again. I always fussed at him about random button pushing and he swore it would never happen again...until the next time. Fredley, I will miss being your IT girl, I will miss your daily phone call for mail check, I will miss your laughter and sense of humor and I will miss you. I hope you know how important you were to me, Fredley....Love ya Rotten!!
