“ Pop,

It's been 2 years since you have passed away and I am still honestly struggling with your passing. There are times when I get myself stuck in a rut because I deeply miss my best friend. I miss my father figure; I miss the man that I strive to be one day. I miss our many conversions on various topics both important and not so important. I miss your sense of humor and your wide knowledge on everything. You were and still are the smartest man I have ever known. You may have never had a fancy piece of paper from one of these overpriced educational institutions but your knowledge in life will never be met by one of those egg head types. I am so thankful for all you did for me, and it will always be appreciated. I miss you and at times I still feel kind of loss without you here, but I know you are looking down on me. I can still feel your presence in my mind, heart and soul and I know one day we will see each other again but until then I love you and I miss you.

“ Pop,

It's been year since you have passed away and it feels like 10. Day's are suppose to become easier after someone passses away but in some ways they have become harder. I sure do miss your presence, advice, kind words and sense of humor. I miss the tough love when I slightly got off track and the pats on the back when the world beat me down. I am thankful for the patience you showed me and the time's we shared. Thank you for being my father figure when mine decided to ditch me. Thank you for being my best friend. My true best friend. But most of all thank you for being Grandfather. I miss you, I love you and I will never forget you. You are always in my heart, my soul, and on my mind. You were and still are the Greatest Man I have ever and will ever have the plesure of knowing.

Love,

Tony

“ Pop, another month has passed since you passed away and the 3 months that you have been gone have felt like 3 years. I will never in the rest of my life here on Earth be able to get over not physically being able to see you with my eyes. I never get used to not being able to hear your voice with my ears. It's strange that I can no longer walk over and shake your hand or give you a hug. This is the longest period in my life in which we have been away from each other, and I will also never get used to that either. And although all those things make me sad sometimes, because I can no longer physically do them your memory will live on for the rest of my life and that makes me really happy. I have said this before, and I will definitely say it again and again but thank you for being my grandfather, my father figure, my best friend and last but not least thank you for being my hero. You were and will always be the greatest man I have ever known. You had the biggest influence on my life. You showed me every day in how you lived your life how a good man should act, and I appreciate that so much. I may have never made it this far in life so far if it wasn't for you. Thank you for never quitting on me, thank you for believing in me even though at times I didn't believe in myself, thank you for being stern on one hand but caring on the other hand, thank you for all your wise words but most of all thank you Pop for your big heart. You were/are the greatest grandfather ever.

“Pop, it's been 2 months since you left this world behind, and you are constantly on my mind. There's not a second throughout the day that I am not thinking about you. These 8 weeks marks the longest amount of time we have physically ever been apart in my life but your memory burns really bright in my mind. As I work to get caught up on somethings around the house, I am going about it like you would have. I stay persistent no matter how time consuming a project can be. I keep calm no matter how difficult something may be, and I don't quit until a job is complete no matter how long it takes to get the job done. Pop, those were just some of characteristic's I picked up from you. Some other characteristics that I will never forget about you are: Your courage, generosity, integrity, patience, willingness to listen and wisdom are just a few of the character traits I would use to describe the man I will always admire and aspire to be like. Also let me add presence. You have always been very present in my life and although you are no longer physically present in my life you will for as long as I walk this earth be very present in my mind. The memories we shared will never be forgotten and as I continue on this crazy ride called life you will be with me every step of the way. I will use courage, generosity, integrity, patience, presence, willingness to listen and wisdom among other traits every day and as I do, I will think about you the man that showed me the right way to be a man. A piece of you will always live through me. Pop, I miss you and I love you, but we will see each other again one day down the road I have no doubt in my mind about that.

“ Pop today marks one month since you have passed away and it hurts just as much now as it did a month ago. At times it hurts more now than it did a month ago. I find myself thinking about you just about every waking minute throughout the day and most nights as I try to sleep. I have been reflecting on the many evenings I spent with you as Maw and Mom worked at the restaurant. I still don't know how all of you did it, but I especially don't know how you did it. Running and operating a successful small business, keeping up with household projects and probably the most exhausting job of them all putting up with me. I know I could be a handful at times especially when I was really young. I hope you know that I always tried to make you proud of me just as I was so very proud of you. I know on a few occasions I let you down and that was always the worst feeling in the world, but you never let me down not one single time that I can think of. I could always count on you, and I am so very appreciative of that. You were my rock, and you still are my rock. Not once in 34 years did you ever quit on me even when it felt like many other people did at times. Family passed on (some moved on), friends and girlfriends came and went but you were always that constant person in my life and although it's somewhat different now you will still be that person in my life. Pop you meant and still mean so very much to me and I don't think the void in my heart will ever fully heal but I am thankful for the times we shared, the advice you gave and most important the love you showed. I miss you so much and I love you.

“ *Its been years since I've seen this wonderful man. All these wonderful memories came flooding back...going to Kusters to get our take-out order. His wonderful family, so humorous and engaging. So many laughs and the BEST french fries this side of the Mississippi.
RIP George. Know that the memory of your laughter and smile brought a smile to this old girls face.*

“ It's been two weeks since you passed but it has felt like way much longer than that. One minute I am thinking about some great times we shared like one of the many day trips we took together while I was growing up or me giving you a hand with fixing something around the house among so many other things. The next minute my heart is aching like it has never ached before because I am missing you so very much. The loss of you has hurt more than anything has ever hurt me before in my life, but I know you aren't hurting anymore and that gives me some peace. I know you are with your parents, Aunt Frances, Uncle Bucky, Wayne, George and many other family and friends and that makes me happy, but it still doesn't make up for the fact that you aren't physically here anymore. You will always be in my heart, soul, mind and dreams. Pop, I will never ever forget you and I just wanted to thank you for being a wonderful grandfather. You were more like a father to me than a grandfather. Thank you for being my first best friend but most of all thank you for being my hero. If I could pick a man, I would want to be the most like you would be that man. You were and still are the greatest. Love you.

“ In the 80's, I met Mr. Kuster and his daughter at the restaurant in La Plata, Md and enjoyed every time I went in to pickup my delicious pizza or sub. I was always greeted with a smile or friendly laughter, and great conversation. Thank you for providing great memories for my teenage years. I'm so glad that I had the change to see you later in life, and tell you how much I enjoyed your food and missed his restaurant.

Loved standing in the back talking to him while he was making dough or sauce. I've laughed till I cried in there! No one could cook like him. They loved their family so much, and it was always good to go in and see them all, always an event. He'll be missed by so many; my heart goes out to Martha and Wendy and family.
