“ I have to admit that I was Daddy's girl, he told me he loved better than anything else in the world. When I became a woman, he walked me down the isle and gave me way with a bitter sweet smile. And when I gave birth he was there too, to greet and say to her I love you too. And now that man who loved me, and wrapped me in arms so strong, has gone where I can't reach him, but my love for him live on. I'll keep his memory alive, and honor all he believed, and just feel so very grateful for his love I received.

Your loving daughter, Sylvia Rubina

If that's true, I know that my Uncle
