“ Pat, you were such a wonderful sister-in-law to me. I enjoyed the holidays we spent together with you and Jared at our house. And every single time you insisted on doing the dishes, bringing enough food and dessert for a small army plus very thoughtful gifts for everyone. Even when you weren't feeling up to it, you always pushed yourself where my family was concerned. It's heartbreaking that you are not with us now There is a place in my heart for you that no one else will ever fill. If Kenny or I ever needed anything, you were always, always willing. Had we dropped the kids off and said we won't be back for a month, you wouldn't have batted an eye and taken them. I can only hope somehow you know how much I will miss and love you.

Pat talked to me many, many times while Jared was going through the process of adopting Sweetie. We had a female pit bull as well, and Pat knew that our dog was loving and obedient and a great companion. She was very hesitant though. She didn't believe dogs should live in the house. She was very concerned about Sweetie being a pit bull. Jared brought Sweetie home several times before the 'adoption' was finalized and Pat acknowledged she was very cute, but she wasn't convinced Sweetie would ever make it in for a sleepover.

We all know how that worked out. Sweetie was like a second child to Pat. She love Sweetie, and Sweetie loved her back. These pictures were taken while Jared was in the hospital after the accident. She wanted him to see that Sweetie was thriving. Soon after these photos were taken, Pat arranged to have Sweetie visit Jared. All thought it was an excellent therapy and would be good for Jared. ESPECIALLY SWEETIE.

So nice to hear the story of how Sweetie came to be part of their family. I've always said she couldn't have had a better name. She is the sweetest and most gentle dog and was loved immensely by Pat. Sweetie was wonderful therapy for Pat as well as Jared.
