Pat had a love for art and decorating; she enjoyed spending quality time with her husband, Ed going on adventures in Old Town, Alexandria, Williamsburg, VA, New Orleans and Southern California, where they would explore, find unique artwork/pottery and try new restaurants. She loved spending time with her granddaughters going to lunch and shopping. Pat loved fashion and her granddaughters became inspired by her unique wardrobe and interior design. She was known for being a great host during family gatherings at her home for Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas Eve. She made each holiday memorable for all that attended. Pat loved cats, her cat, Panda, was her companion who she loved dearly. She would connect with friends and family on Facebook, with daily greetings and pictures with words of wisdom each morning.

Pat was predeceased by her parents, sisters and brother-in-law's: Jean (Ray) Huntley, Donna (Michael) Berry and her first husband, Michael W. Howard. She is survived by her son Michael 'Chris' Howard (Brenda); her husband, Dr. Edward C. Clark; and her two granddaughters, Julia Howard, and Camryn Howard.
