

Sharon M. Hurd

August 20, 1942 - June 30, 2017

Sharon Hurd was born in Washington DC on August 20, 1942, the only child of Doris DeBow Micoloy and Ruldoph M. Micoloy. She was the beloved wife of R.J. "Jack" Hurd, the mother of three, and a doting grandmother of four.

Raised in the idyllic neighborhood of District Heights, Sharon was a 1960 graduate of Suitland High School, and a 1962 graduate of the Washington Hospital Center School of Nursing, where she took up residency as a floor nurse. During one shift, a patient from another floor came in to see his mother. In that moment, an enduring love began. Jack told Sharon he was going to marry her on their second date and he did not leave her side until his death two years ago.

Sharon and Jack's was the romance of novels and fairytales—the purity of devotion so rare and special that it is coveted by the rest of the world, and made mythological in its existence. And it was absolutely true for them.

Beloved wife.

Within the constraints of those two very commonly used words, Sharon lived, loved, and raised her family. And within those two words, a world that had shattered upon their parting two years previously has again been made whole.

Services and Interment are private.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to Hospice of Charles County, 2505 Davis Road Waldorf, Maryland 20603.

“ I was so sorry to hear of Sharon's passing on June 30. She has been my neighbor for many years and with her husband Jack, we have shared lots of good times together with dinner dates and just hanging out talking and solving problems of the World. Jack and Sharon were the most, in love, and devoted to each other couple I have ever met in my life. Where you saw one, you saw the other. I know Sharon is finally at peace now in Heaven with her husband and I an sure he welcomed here with open arms. RIP Sharon, you will sure be missed.

“ While we lived next door to you all for so many years, watching you all grow, it was obvious to see the Love Sharon and Jack Shared. It is sad that the years seemed to fly by and our only contact was through Christmas cards; the memories come flooding back. Sharon was a dear lady and a loving and caring mom. Sharon will be missed. My thoughts and prayers go out to Sharon and Jack's family.
