“ I saw where someone mentioned "free spirit" and during the 13 or 14 years that I had the privilege of calling Tom a friend, I fully agree. But he was also much more. He was a perfectionist and when helping others, no matter what the project was, he wasn't satisfied until it was done perfect. He was a fisherman who couldn't wait until trophy season every year. He was an animal lover - who else would take a stray turtle to a veterinarian to fix an overbite? He was a fireworks wizard for the family. He went out of his way to help others and never would accept payment. You cannot document someone's life in a few words but Tom was unique and more importantly, he was a good man. Missing you my friend.
